Tufts Eco-Reps Fall 2011 Info Sheet

Job Description
The Tufts Eco-reps are a group of residential students who help to raise awareness about ecological issues, encourage environmentally responsible behavior of their hall mates and peers, and plan related events and activities. Other duties include group activities, collaborative projects, and opportunities to represent the Eco-Reps Program at various campus events. Eco-reps must attend a training retreat, as well as weekly meetings. At each meeting you’ll be introduced to a new topic, help plan activities, and brainstorm actions to take in your residence halls over the following weeks. Any returning student that lives in university housing is eligible to apply.

What we are looking for
• Effective communication skills
• Ability to work independently and collaboratively, and to be accountable for that work
• Ability to learn about environmental topics and relate that information to your peers
• Enthusiastic, engaging individuals who are passionate about environmental and social issues

What you will gain
• Leadership and peer education skills
• Knowledge of environmental and social topics
• Experience working collaboratively with other passionate students
• $25/week for 3-5 hours of work per week (work study is not required)

Time commitment
This position will be a commitment of about 3-5 hours a week, plus a mandatory weekly meeting. Besides the meetings, much of your work will be done independently, on your own schedule. There will be requests for participation in occasional group events and training opportunities. A day-long training retreat is MANDATORY for all Eco-Reps (see application for possible dates).
